Summary: A poem of the pegasus Helios and Chibiusa. Written in 1998

Silver Night, Pink Moon

Silver Night, Pink Moon

Listen to the slow breath of the many worlds,

Their dreams united as one in an everlasting song

Hear them and please don't cry any more little maiden

You are never alone with your dream as a guide

For it shines like a beacon of a million stars in the midnight wind

I will always be here for you as long as your soft light of hope illuminates the universe...

Alone in a place of darkness

I first saw him

A winged unicorn

Carved out of the purest crystal, white with a horn of gold

I reached to touch it, a dream

So beautiful it could never grow old

Or know the harsh light of day
Part of an ancient tale little told
But I could never be that strong.
As just a little girl
With nothing but a dream
Pluto is so wise, has seen all time...
Yet is so human Hotaru weighs the end and the beginning in her hands, upon black chalices
So afraid yet so gentle and strong
Mine is a destiny led by moonlight
I pray with fear half hidden and to a future not yet born...
That I will become a true lady and great warrior
Sometimes in my prayer,
I hear his steps like a song of tiny glass bells
I wonder will my dream ever be enough, when there is no hope left to wish for?
Please tell me Helios....
Tell me in your eternal melody....

End
file.
